GREAT DAY

For Democracy Was Last Saturday.

2500 Visitors Were in Louisa to Enjoy the Speaking and Barbecue.

The Democratic barbecue given in this city last Saturday was the first affair of the kind ever held in Lawrence. Although but little time had been allowed for advertising the demonstration the occasion was made memorable by the presence of at least twenty-five hundred people, men, women and children. The hosts of Democracy began to come to Louisa as early as Friday. Early on Saturday morning they came over the hill, around the hill, up the lane and over the bridge from the Point and Fort Gay and from all over Wayne county. The 7:30 train brought a big crowd, and the 9:20 train up Sandy was chock full and running over.

The speakers had arrived on the early train and almost as soon as the second train had discharged its living freight the program for the day was begun. The Louisa brass band, neat and alert in its bright uniform, had met all trains and paraded the streets, attracting and pleasing large crowds. About ten o'clock the band was stationed in the music stand in the public square, and this formed the rallying point of the big crowd. The Court House could not have contained one-fourth of the people, so the speaking was made from the stand. The first speaker was Tim Scanlon, a well known citizen and prominent Democrat of Huntington. Mr. Scanlon was introduced to his hearers by H. C. Sullivan. The Huntington gentleman lacks much of being a physical giant, but he is short of nothing when it comes to a knowledge of public men and matters. With this knowledge is the ability to tell an audience in a very effective way what he knows of public affairs, current politics and the political history of the times. Mr. Scanlon is a business man and manufacturer, but he is a manufacturer who has regard for the men he employs. He told how he conducted his business—how his men worked, what they were paid etc., and what his aid along this line certainly caught the crowd. He spoke more than an hour and was listened to with close attention, punctuated with hearty cheers, until he had finished.

At the close of Mr. Scanlon's fine speech it was announced that a recess would be taken for dinner. The people were told where the dinner would be served and how it would be distributed, and quietly and without the least disorder the hungry multitude followed directions. There had been some doubt and misgiving on part of many regarding the barbecue part of this great meeting. "There won't be half enough," "It won't be fit to eat," "They can't wait on half the people," and so forth. Prophets of evil all. Not one of these dire conditions obtained. Here is how it was done: When a famous old darkey cook was asked how she cooked a rabbit so well she said "First catch yer rabbit." This sage direction was heeded by the committee on food. It purchased five big, fat beavers. These were carefully dressed and as carefully cooked by steam at the Canning Factory, and nicer meat you never ate. Five hundred loaves of fresh bread were bought, and this beef and bread, with sweet potatoes and good coffee and pickles in abundance made up a menu good enough for anybody. Thousands of wooden trays, such as you find at the grocers, were provided, and into each of these trays were put a big slice of beef, bread, potatoes and a pickle. All this good food had been carried to a stand on Main Cross street, near Jones' photograph shop. Here stood active, efficient servers, and as the crowd passed along every man, woman and child who came received one of these full trays and a pint tin cup of steaming coffee. There was not the slightest confusion or disorder, and no one went away hungry. How's that for a Big Sandy Democratic barbecue?

Dinner being over and the multitude rested and fed, the blare of trumpet and the roll of drum called the people to a feast of reason and a flow of soul. On the platform stood the handsome figure of Robert Franklin, the famous Prosecuting Attorney of Franklin county, the old-time, all-time champion of a pure Democracy, the eloquent, fearless advocate of the great common people.

He had come from his Frankfort home to speak to the people of the hill country, and right nobly did he perform his pleasing duty. He was introduced by G. W. Castle, and before he had spoken a half dozen sentences the people were his by right of capture. What a captivating speaker he is. Rich of voice, expressive of countenance and apt of gesture he seems an orator to the manner born. He told of the intricacies of the tariff; of the influence it had caused the people; of the inconsistencies of Modern Republicanism, and for each theme he had his pat story and illustration, each told in "Bob's" own inimitable way. If "Bob" Franklin should be a candidate for a State office the men who heard him would fall over themselves to get to vote for him, and the cry for female suffrage would rend the air.

At the conclusion of Mr. Franklin's telling and winning speech Mr. Castle introduced Charles Newell, of Mayville. Mr. Newell is a townsman of Jim Kehoe, the people's Democratic candidate for Congress from this district, and it was mainly of him that Mr. Newell spoke. They had known each other from boyhood, and Mr. Kehoe and his cause had a sufficient champion. He did not speak long, but in the short time he occupied the stand, Newell did well for the cause for which he came from the Blue Grass to the valley of the Sandy.

The conclusion of Judge Newell's speech was the signal for the dispersal of the big, good natured, good humored crowd. So ended the first barbecue given, as far as we know in the good old county of Lawrence.

Bits of Barbecue.

When day dawned Saturday the sky was overcast with clouds, but the rising sun of Nature cleared them and brightened and warmed the earth. So, too, will the rising sun of Democracy clear the murky political skies and warm and brighten the whole country.

Autumn never brought a lovelier day. Not too cool, not too warm. Just right. Did you ever see a nicer crowd? Well looking, well dressed, well mannered.

The visitors from the Blue-Grass were loud in praises of our barbecue and our people.

The meeting of last Saturday will produce good results for the cause. It brought out the wheelhorses and the leadhorses of the party as well as the first voters, and to all it proved of great value.

To the committee who conducted the barbecue to such a happy ending: to those who killed and carved, and to those who waited on the crowd, and to all who in any way helped to make the day a success, all thanks are due.

Church Papers Combine.

The Methodist Advocate the official organ of the Methodists of West Virginia, and the Central Methodist, the official organ of the Methodists of Kentucky, have been united and will be published in Frankfort, Ky. Rev. Walter Q. Vreeland is the editor in chief.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Small Son of Will Ferguson Saved by Rare Presence of Mind.

The following account of a narrow escape from a sudden and horrible death will be read with interest by Louisians. The boy's father and mother were natives of this city, where they have many friends and relatives. The story is by the Catlettsburg correspondent of the Ashland Independent:

"Chester Ferguson, the 13-year-old son of William Ferguson, agent for the Adams Express Company in this city, had a narrow escape from death this morning when an engine and seven freight cars passed over his body, but without touching him. Few persons have been known to have such an experience as this lad underwent. On his way to school, Chester crossed the 'fill' over the Catletts creek culvert, a short distance below the C. & O. depot, and when about half way over, local freight No. 99, flashed into sight around the curve, enroute west. Stepping onto the ether track out of the way of No. 99, Chester tripped and fell headlong into the middle of the track, and at the same instant there was a rush, a whirl of wheels, the rattle of a great iron monster, and the engine of freight No. 88, east-bound, was passing over him. Seven cars followed in the wake of the big engine, and until the very last had passed, the boy lay quite still, hugging the cross ties as closely as his strength would permit. Only Chester's presence of mind saved him from the horrible death of being ground to pieces beneath the merciless wheels, for, had he made one single attempt to rise, the result would have been serious. As it was, the only evidence visible of the dreadful accident were the boy's white face, his shortness of breath, and a slight cut on the shoe.

THE ROOSTER

This Year Will be in the Second Column on Kentucky Ballots.

The attention of all Democrats is called to the fact that the Democratic column on the Kentucky ballots this year will occupy second place from the left side. For some time past the rooster headed the first column, but on account of the State having gone Republican last fall the log cabin will have first place. Democrats have been used to voting in the first column and it will be well for them to notice the change and call the attention of their brethren to the change.

Masonic Grand Bodies.

The Grand Lodge and the Grand Chapter were both in session in Louisville this week. The attendance upon both bodies was the largest in history. C. C. Hill is representing Apperson lodge, and H. B. Hewlett is the delegate of the Louisa Chapter. A. J. Conley is attending the lodge and chapter as a visitor.

Will Vote for Bryan.

Jim Cooksey, formerly of this county, and who has been a Republican in whom there was neither vacillateness nor shadow of turning was here recently. He says the men where he is engaged in Ohio number 231, and of this number all but 13 will vote for Bryan. And Jim is one of the 218.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Burns went to Floyd county last Monday, where they will visit part of their numerous kinsred and friends. Their Louisa friends hope that the visit may add greatly to the health and strength of this esteemed couple.

The Ohio Mechanics' Institute, a school of technical science in which Victor Munsey, well known here, holds a professorship, has been enriched by a gift of half a million dollars. Mrs. Mary Emery, of Cincinnati, was the donor.

GEOLOGICAL REPORT

Just Issued by U. S. Department Covers Local Territory.

Readers of the News will remember that at various times during the summer of 1907 we called attention to the work of the United States surveying and geological corps in this county and in other parts of this section of Kentucky. The corps was in charge of W. C. Phalen, of Washington, and the work was done at the joint cost of the United States and Kentucky.

Kentucky's mineral wealth is nowhere manifested so notably as in what is termed by the geological survey the Kenova quadrangle. This quadrangle covers 938 square miles, and while a small part of Wayne county, West Virginia and the Southern part of Lawrence county, Ohio, is included in it, by far the greater part lies in Kentucky, for it includes the whole of Boyd county, the larger part of Lawrence and parts of Greenup and Elliott counties.

It takes its name from the small town of Kenova, a name coined by combining the abbreviations of the three States named. The town lies at the confluence of the Big Sandy and Ohio rivers. The Kentucky and Ohio portions are sometimes called "Hanging Rock" region from an outcrop of massive rock at Hanging Rock on the Ohio, a few miles below Ashland.

W. C. Phalen, of the Geological Survey has just issued a bulletin descriptive of the Kenova quadrangle. The quadrangle, he says, forms part of a much larger area, in which, during the last three or four decades, the mining of coal and the mining and smelting of iron ores have been actively carried on. The iron ores of the Hanging rock region of Kentucky were of great importance in the seventies and eighties, but the introduction of cheaper ores from Alabama and the Lake Superior region and the gradual disappearance of the forests on which the charcoal furnaces depended have caused a decline in the iron industry of the district, and no furnaces using local ores are now in operation.

But, though of little value at present, the iron ore may be more important in the future, for when the cheaper ores now in the market become scarce and prices advance, the higher grades of ores in the Kenova quadrangle will be worked. The fact that similar thin beds of ore have been successfully worked in Europe is significant. During the last five years the mines of the quadrangle have yielded approximately 1,800,000 short tons of coal, and the coal mining in the region is still active.

The State Inspector of Mines of Kentucky has also reported a production of cannel coal and coke. Most of the mines are small, equipment is simple, and nearly all the local railroad lines. The cannel coal is shipped to places along the mined at Boghead and Hunnwell, is however, shipped abroad for use as a gas enricher, and some of the coal of the Torchlight mine is shipped to Pacific coast ports.

The quadrangle contains also valuable deposits of clays suitable for a variety of purposes, but these deposits are at present little developed. The amount of available material is, however, large, and the clay industry of the region should have a promising future.

Mr. Phalen's report gives details in regard to the distribution, character, extent and development of the coals, clays, limestones and building stones, iron ores, oil and gas and other mineral resources of the quadrangle and references to previous publications containing information about the area.

To New York for Treatment.

Russell Millinder has gone to New York city to be treated for the peculiar form of paralysis which has afflicted him so long. He is visiting his uncle, Dr. Post, a physician of prominence, and under his guidance the young man will be treated by the best specialists in the city. The boy's friends here will be glad to hear of Russell's ultimate recovery. He is a bright young fellow, and with a sound physique he would make a useful man.

AWFUL TRAGEDY

Five Perish in Fire at Paintsville.

George Stafford and Family Lose Their Lives in a Burning Residence.

Sunday night about 10 o'clock, while many of our citizens were just retiring for sleep, and many more resting in peaceful slumbers, the stillness was suddenly broken by the alarm of fire and the scene of quietude and rest was turned immediately into one of excitement and grief. Citizens rushed into the streets to behold what was truly the saddest affair ever witnessed in the town of Paintsville.

The angry flames rushed heavenward, carrying with them the shrieks of helpless sufferers, making a spectacle not soon to be forgotten by our people.

The fire was in the old dwelling at the corner of East and First streets, near the M. E. Church South, occupied by Mr. George Stafford and family and an invalid lady named Mrs. Liza Lavender. It seems to have had its origin in the kitchen, but no one knows definitely. The family was asleep and when they awoke they found their escape cut off by the flames as they leaped from room to room and up the stairway to the second floor. The stairway led up from the rear of the building, and when once on fire escape was impossible. The father, one son and two daughters (young women) rushed to a half window in front of the building, but failed to leap, whether from excitement or suffocation, will never be known. Side by side they met death in the most horrible form imaginable. The sisters, when their bodies were recovered, were found to have died clasped in each other's arms.

Mrs. Stafford in a leap for life, leaped to death from a second story window, and of a family of seven only two (sons) survive, who in some miraculous manner escaped the awful fate.

Mrs. Lavender, the aged invalid lady, whose room was on the first floor, had not yet retired and discovered the fire just in time to attempt to make her escape through the front window of her room. By this time help had arrived and she was assisted to safety, aside from the excitement, was uninjured.

The scene was awful. Women and children wringing their hands and crying and rushing through the streets. The roar of the flames, the grief of the sons who escaped, their words, "We alone are left," was almost unbearable. The tears in the eyes of strong men hurst through and ran down their cheeks. The old time truth was vividly impressed, "Life is uncertain and death is sure."

The son who perished in the flames was a member of the public school and one of the girls having passed the grade of the public school was enrolled in the Sandy Valley Seminary. To show their respect and heartfelt sympathies, both schools adjourned Monday and proclaimed a day of mourning.

The dead are George Stafford, aged 60; Fannie Stafford, aged 18; Neva Stafford, aged 16; Charles Stafford, aged 8; Mrs. George Stafford, aged 69.

The rescued are Ballard Stafford, aged 22; Frank Stafford, aged 16; Liza Lavender, an old lady.

George Stafford, was known to many people. He was a brother of Frank Stafford, of Catlettsburg, and was a well known and highly esteemed citizen of Johnson county and Paintsville. The horrible catastrophe has cast a pall of gloom over Paintsville and the surrounding country, and is the sole topic of conversation. Business for the greater part of the day was well nigh suspended. Mr. Stafford was a son of James Stafford, a blind man who sometimes visits at Louisa.

The Medical Society.

The Lawrence County Medical Society held its monthly meeting in this city last Monday. The following doctors were present: C. C. Wheeler, J. O. Moore, Scott Hayes, Will Hayes, L. H. York, A. W. Bromley, L. B. Dean and F. D. Marcum. Dr. Moore read a very good paper on Eclampsia, and the usual routine business was transacted.

The next meeting of the society will be held on the third Monday in November, at this place, when arrangements will be made for a banquet. To this function one or more distinguished physicians will be invited who will address the Society upon topics of interest.

Fifteen to Five.

Louisa wrestled and punched and kicked with a Huntington squad last Saturday, each trying to get an inflated bladder oftener to a mark called a goal. Huntington got there more times by ten than Louisa and won the game. They do say that if Junior Lackey hadn't trumped his partner's ace things would have been different.

After the battle some girls scoured the field for souvenirs, and one young lady collected enough hair to stuff a sofa pillow.

Ashland District Conference.

The Ashland District Conference will convene Wednesday, November 14, 1 o'clock p. m., at Eden, Ky. Missionary Institute will be in conjunction with said conference, also Sunday School and Epworth League Conference. Come prepared to remain over Sunday and until the work is thoroughly completed.

More Light.

As Louisa is one of the dustiest places in the country, and water plentiful and moderately cheap, so is it the darkest town in the country, and gas plentiful at one-fortieth of a cent a foot. Near the top of the grade you can almost hang your hat on the dark. From the Southern Methodist Church to R. T. Burns' there is one street light, and that a private one. Around the depot you can cut the black with a knife. The lights there have long since ceased to light. Looking down Lock Avenue is like looking into a dark cellar at midnight. What's the matter?

Called Suddenly.

Elijah Prewitt, a well known resident on the Tug side of the Point, died very suddenly last Saturday morning. His was in his usual health early in the day, and the news of his death came to his son, James, while the latter was in Louisa attending the barbecue. Mr. Prewitt was about 84 years of age. The family lived near the mouth of Rockcastle.

Buck Crutcher, who some time ago bought what is known as the widow Burchett property on Perry street, is having the house repaired and improved. A new roof has been put on and a veranda built, extending the whole length of the front of the house. When finished the house will be occupied by Mr. Crutcher.

Mrs. Eldridge Short died in Catlettsburg a few days ago of consumption. The body was taken to the old home where it was buried last Tuesday. Mrs. Short was the daughter of Chas. Jones, formerly of Cat's fork, and who died suddenly in Catlettsburg a year ago.

Job Printing

Some of you are paying more for your job printing than the Big Sandy News office charges, and getting a poorer class of work and a cheaper grade of stock. It is worth your while to investigate.

RUBBER STAMPS.

Rubber stamps are a great convenience for certain purposes. They are not suitable for printing your letter heads and envelopes. Neatly printed stationery looks business-like and is cheaper, all things considered, than buying blank stock and stamping it yourself.

However, we furnish rubber stamps at 1 cent for a single line 3 inches or less in length. 30 cents for 3 lines. 3 inches or less.

Can't Miss It

So many ailments are purely nervous affections, that you can hardly miss it if you try Dr. Miles' Nerve. It restores nervous energy—and through its invigorating influence upon the nervous system, the organs are strengthened. The heart action is better; digestion improved, the sluggish condition overcome, and healthy activity re-established.

"Dr. Miles' Nerve is worth its weight in gold to me. I did not know what ailed me. I had a good physician but got no relief. I could not eat, sleep, work, sit or stand. I was nearly crazy. One day I picked up a paper and the first thing that met my eyes was an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Nerve. I concluded to try it and let the doctor go, and I did so. After taking two bottles I could dress myself. Then I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and now I can work and go out, and have told many the benefit I have received from these remedies and several of them have been cured by it since. I am fifty-nine years old and pretty good yet."

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

It would be just as sensible for them to prescribe Quinine in its crude form as to prescribe Cod Liver Oil in its natural state. In Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle.

There are too many fathers who will tie up the dog at night and turn the boy loose.

Some women are awful touchy. A widow has brought an action against a paper which said her husband had gone to a happier home.

What is needed most of all in bringing up children is example. What they see and hear and take in by absorption in their young years, will, in most cases, become the ruling trait of their lives. Parents rarely fully realize to what extent they stand as models to their children.

There is no surer safeguard against the temptations that come to young men and women than a love for home. It has brought back and held many a wanderer in a safe place. It is something not only to love home but to know that you love it—and to know that you are happier at home than in any other spot on earth.

Some children are brought to understand that idleness is a crime, and that no amount of fine culture can make them pass for valuable in the world's eye if they are unable to earn a livelihood, and so must become hangers on for others to support, the better for them. The daughter who helps her mother cook and scrub, is far more worthy than she who only paints and plays, and obliges her overworked father to pay a servant that she may not soil her dainty hands.

There is a charity that consists in withholding words, in keeping back harsh judgments, in abstaining from speech, if to speak is to condemn. Such charity bears the tales of slander, but does not repeat it; listens in silence, but forbears comment; then looks the unpleasant secret up in the very depth of his heart. Silence can still rumor; it is speech that keeps a story alive, and lends its vigor. It is in the kind and gentle heart that charity abides with the peacefulness of a dove. There it makes its home, and by the word withheld, and the kindly one outspoken, we have the sign of the dove of peace in the heart. For kind words are like apples of gold in pictures of silver.

Those who habitually correct their children in their faults by whipping and boxing them, must not be surprised when they find them slapping them in return, and rough and abusive toward one another. They are simply trying to enforce their own little ideas of right as they have seen their elders do. The mother who spends most of her time fussing over the wardrobes of her children and herself, starching, ironing and decorating and making them fashionable, will find the lessons she taught cropping out in delinquency; in vanity that prevents the development of solid character and useful habits. The father who smokes and drinks and spends his substance in riotous living, will have better luck than arrangement if his children turn out to be strong, healthy and honorable citizens.

CHANGED BY KINDNESS. "We were married 37 years," a man said, who had lost his wife, "and in all that time she never gave me a cross word. But I shall never forget the first time I scolded her. One morning when we had been married two years, I found a button off my shirt. I threw the garment at her and said in a rough voice, 'Sew a button on.' She got a button and sewed it on, saying, 'Forgive me husband, I had a great deal to do yesterday, and I forgot it; but it shall never happen again.' Her gentle words almost broke my heart. I could have gone down on my knees to ask her forgiveness. She made a different man of me, and the world has been a different place since she died."

OVER DRESS. Too many mothers consider their children as simply objects for the display of their own vanity and pride. Little Mary must be kept in pure white clothes all the season, though neither the father's purse nor mother's strength is sufficient to provide the numberless changes necessary. Instead of dressing the child in sensible frocks of blue flannel, such as millionaire's children are not ashamed to wear for play dresses, every effort is strained to reach this false ideal of the dress which the mother has set up for herself. She sits up into the wee small hours of the night working on some dainty gown in which all the childish impulses for play are stifled forever in dress array. The over-dressed child is always the unhappy child. She is a pert miss who has learned early to regard overmuch the pomps and vanities of life, or she is poor little discontented victim, who has never had a chance for childish play, and looks with envy at the ragged, little tumbling little urchins who mislead mud pies on the road side.

The over-dressed boy is even more unhappy than the over-dressed girl. The little Lord Fauntleroy boys who were seen a few years ago in their velvet suits, though they were very picturesque, were a very unhappy set of little gentlemen, and were probably very thankful when the fashion changed and they could wear blue flannel sailor suits and double-breasted trousers, and play marbles and hitlum.

"Do you like your new suit, Johnnie?" said a visitor to a boy in long blonde curls and Fauntleroy dress. "Naw," he replied. "I don't like to be a girl. It's my ma wants me to be a little angel."

How much sacrifice do such poor mothers make on the altar of personal vanity, and how little time and temper must be left to devote to the spiritual training of the child.

What a lack there is in such a home of the true spirit of motherhood, of that tender care which the child will remember in after years, and which will help to guide him straight over the pitfalls that beset every path. The boy who looks upon his home as a place for the display of nervous irritation that comes from overwork, where everything is sacrificed to the love of show and no place left for the angel of rest and peace, will leave at his first opportunity, and at the same time his training has ill-fitted him to meet the great temptations outside.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a humming sound or imperfect hearing, and when this is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured. Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists 5c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

COLLEGE-BRED FARMERS.

Tell How They Made The Old Farm Pay--
Many Good Points of Interest.

THE BALANCED RATION.

One of the greatest advantages I gained by reason of my course in agriculture was that of knowledge of principles of judging livestock. Repeatedly I have been able to get a better horse for less money than I could possibly have done without my training in school.

There are plenty of horses which look good but will not make good, and to detect the difference between specimens of these two classes is certainly an immense advantage to the farmer. Another great advantage is the ability to size up the fattening possibilities of a thin steer. In this line alone the instruction which I received at school has been almost invaluable to be.

However, the knowledge of scientific feeding—of how to make up a balanced ration to suit a specific purpose—is the most important of all the advantages which I gained at the agricultural college. For example, I have been feeding fifty hogs the past season and have saved at least one hundred and seventy dollars by feeding them a fully balanced ration.

There is one thing which the boy who is considering a course in an agricultural college should not forget, especially if he is without funds, and faces the problem of having to get his start by working as an employee; there are plenty of positions open for a graduate of an agricultural college as soon as he leaves the institution. I could have had a place immediately on leaving school at an advance of ten dollars a month over what I was able to get before I took the course.

THE FIRST VOTER.

Young man, great responsibility attaches to your first vote. As you begin, so you are likely to continue. The momentum that carries you into a party at the beginning of your political life is apt to keep you in that party unless some convulsion shakes you out of it. Start right, examine the principles of the parties and the policies which they advocate.

There are two great organizations in the United States, one fifty years old and the other more than a century old. The Republican party has been in power almost unintermittently for more than half a century and under its reign abuses have grown up which threaten the perpetuity of the government and endanger our civilization. So great are these abuses that the Republican reformers are now pointing out that something must be done—and what can be done? The first thing to do is to undo the things that have been done, and the party to undo these abuses is not the party which has done them, but the party has protested against these abuses and pointed out remedies.

The Republican party has turned the taxing power over to private individuals; it has allowed monopolies to grow up and assume control of the industries of the country by granting privileges by law and by giving immunity to the large violators of the law; the Republican party has permitted the fortunes of the predatory rich to become so large that government is corrupted, politics debauched and business polluted.

The Democratic party proposes to withdraw the taxing power from private hands, to so legislate as to make a private monopoly impossible, and to enforce the law without discrimination. It proposes to protect legitimate wealth and punish those who attempt to plunder the public for private gain. On which side do you stand, young man? Are you with the masses in their effort to restore the government to its old foundation and make it a government of the people, for the people and by the people, or are you with the Republican leaders in their effort to perpetuate the party in power by selling immunity in return for campaign contributions?

There are always two parties in the country, the one is necessary nearer the people than the other. In this country the Democratic party is nearer the people than the Republican party. Its leaders have more faith in the people and are anxious to keep the government under the control of the people. Take the election of the United States Senators by the people as a test. The Democrats want to give to the voters a chance to elect and to control their Representatives in the United States Senate. The Democratic party in the house of Representatives passed the first resolution for the submission of the necessary constitutional amendment. They did this eight years before any Republican congress did it. The Democratic party has three demanded this reform in its national platform. The Republican party has leaders insist upon this reform and not done so. Why do Democratic leaders insist upon this reform and the Republican leaders oppose it? There can be but one answer—the Democratic party is nearer to the people than the Republican party. Young man will you stand with the people or against them?

The answer to this question affects your country. If you are with the people, your influence be it great or small, will hasten their victory. If you are against the people your influence may retard this victory. But while in the first instance it is your country that may gain or lose by your action, you must remember that in the long run your own position in politics will depend upon your conduct. You cannot fool the people always. You may lead them astray if you dare, but they will punish you when they find you out. You may work for the people without their recognizing it at first, but you can trust them to discover the character of your work and to reward you accordingly.—The Commoner.

Two slight fires occurred in Williamson, which had it not been for the prompt action of the fire company, would have resulted disastrously. The first fire occurred in one of the small buildings in the rear of the Olympic theater, the property of the Stratton Hotel. The blaze started in a dresser drawer where it is supposed rats had got hold of some matches. The blaze had scarcely been extinguished when one of the films on the moving picture machine at the Majestic theater caught fire. This caused a loud explosion which could be heard several blocks away. The fire gained a rapid headway before the fire company reached the scene and for a while it looked like the entire interior of the building would be consumed by flames. The fire company was not long in getting the flames under their control.

Only the machine and the loft where it was operated are seriously damaged.

In Memoriam.

Eunice Woods, the bright daughter of J. H. and Dora Woods, is gone but not forgotten. Her sweet voice will be heard no more in Sunday school no more the little class of which she was a member will hear her sweet voice and enjoy her loving kindness no more. But listen, while we miss her from our class and our hearts are sad because she is gone and all that was mortal of her sleeps on the hill near her father's home. We believe the spirit of Eunice is in the Paradise of Rest.

She seemed to understand that it was her duty to serve the master and seemed to take a delight in so doing. When she was first taken sick her mother asked her if she would get well. Her answer was, "I am going to heaven, meet me there, tell papa to be a good man and meet me in heaven."

We will learn to love our neighbors and brothers and sisters in the church and can look forward to the time when our bodies shall be changed from mortal to immortal. We are looking forward to that great day when Jesus shall come again. Then if we are faithful servants we will be His guest at the great marriage feast.

It is there we expect to meet Eunice Woods and many others that have gone on before. When the tolls of the road are reached will seem nothing when we reach the end of the way.

Resolutions.

Whereas, God in His wisdom has seen proper to remove from Jake Rice Lodge our worthy Brother, Isaac Lester, therefore be it resolved that the lodge is bereft of one of its most efficient members, the church a faithful and energetic laborer in the cause of Christ.

While Jake Rice lodge mourns his absence we regard his vacant seat as having been vacated here to accept one more exalted, where sorrow and bereavement never come.

Be it further resolved, That the widow and family of our departed brother be given a kind and affectionate husband and father, and the community an honorable citizen.

Resolved, That we extend our deepest sympathy to his family in their sad bereavement and commend them to Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That as a tribute to his memory we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days. Resolved, that a memorial page be set apart upon the records of this lodge and that a copy of these resolutions be spread thereon. A copy be sent to the family and a copy to the Big Sandy News for publication.

A Youthful Traveler.

Bright blue eyes and pink cheeks adorned a small boy who walked in to the reporters' room at the city hall last evening. One hand of the boy guarded a bunch box of general proportions and the other nestled in that of a man of kindly face, very big in contrast. From the "little man's" coat lapel a card dangled, bearing this inscription:

"Charles MacMillan, going to Montgomery, Ala. Conductor, please see that he gets on L. and N. train at Louisville, Ky."

The big man explained that he was T. J. Lanahan, a special agent of the C. and O. railway, and then introduced the little one. Everyone "came across" and shook the youngster's hand, chairs were pulled up and questions filled the atmosphere with confusing rapidity.

Charles, or Charley, as he described himself, has been visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Macmillan, at Prestonsburg, Ky., all summer, and is on his way home to Montgomery, Ala. He left Prestonsburg yesterday morning, took the Kentucky Central to Ashland, and the C. & O. to Louisville. He had no money, only a through ticket to Montgomery, Ala., and the lunch box. Boylike, he prentended to be confident that he had already eaten nearly all the cake, but was saving the chicken and "heavies" till he got hungry. He left town about 9:30 o'clock last night and will get home about ten o'clock today.

Mr. Lanahan said that he had met the boy at the Seventh street station last night at 8 o'clock. He had previously received a telegram from the division superintendent of the C. and O., instructing him to take the child in charge here and see that he made the proper transfer. The instructions did not caution Lanahan to avoid reporters.

POLITICAL MATTER.

Interesting Reading About The Campaign Now On.

Taft a Non Believer.

Taft denies the divinity of Jesus Christ. Bryan is the author of one of the strongest and most beautiful arguments ever published in support of the Christian religion and the immortality of the soul. For several years he has been delivering it as a lecture at Chautauqua gatherings. Bryan is a thorough Christian, consistent in his habits, and one of the cleanest men ever in public life. Nobody of intelligence and information is really afraid to trust such a man in any position. On the other hand this is just the kind of man we need in high places. Bryan is incorruptible.

If Taft should be elected our missionaries to foreign countries would be placed in a very awkward position, to say the least. The heathen, as we usually call all who do not believe in Christian religion would point to our President as a non-believer and a "heathen." They would advise the conversion of home people and especially those chosen for the highest offices. Thousands of Christians are going to cross their politics and vote against the man who repudiates Christ in the face of all the proof at his command.

About Panics.

Have you ever thought of the fact that all the panics this country ever had since the civil war have been under Republican Administration? 1873, 1892, 1907. Republican politicians refer to the 1892 panic as the Cleveland panic, but intelligent people are not fooled by it. They know that the great homestead strike, which marked the breaking of all the fury of the storm, occurred July 2, 1892, four months before Cleveland's election and eight months before his inauguration. Mr. Cleveland did the greatest service ever rendered this country in guiding it safely and wisely through the depression caused by the workings of the high tariff laws.

Again we are suffering from the same cause. It is like a man getting over a big drunk. The tariff stimulates one class of business to an abnormal extent, with the result that over-production and stagnation follows. The drunkard feels good and gets along hilariously for a while, believing that he is having a fine time and hoping that this condition will continue indefinitely; but his system will not stand it, a collapse comes, and he suffers long and horribly in getting back into normal condition. Just so with the business of the country when it has an overdose of the stimulant provided by the tariff for the manufacturing interests. The reaction is as certain to come as the earth is to make its annual revolutions.

The trusts are made possible only by the protection afforded by the tariff and they play an important part in demoralizing natural conditions and bringing about the various troubles from which we are suffering and will continue to suffer as long as Republican policies prevail.

The Tariff.

After all, the high tariff is the cause of the most serious troubles we are having. It is also certainly very unjust to the masses of our people. We have only to consider the fact that manufacturers ship vast quantities of their products to foreign countries, pay the freights, and compete with the world in prices. All they sell in this country, however, is sold at a very much higher than the identical products shipped abroad. Take watch movements for instance. A dealer in New York has been going to London and bringing large quantities of Elgin and Waltham watches and shipping them back to New York. These watch movements are all made in this country, but are sold so much cheaper to foreign dealers than to home dealers that it is possible to pay freights and tariff and get the goods back cheaper than the manufacturers will sell them direct here. Is it right to have laws that make it possible to rob home consumers in this manner? The same is true of almost every other manufactured article—but not of any farmer's products. In the purchase of steel rails for railroads a buyer finds that the manufacturer has two prices on the same product—$28 per ton for home consumers and about $18 per ton for export. Attempts have been made by the home people to buy the rails under pretense of wanting them for foreign use. They have even had shipments started to a foreign address and tried to intercept the goods before being loaded on a vessel, but the manufacturers so draws the contract that the foreign shipment must actually be made or the home price paid. Is not this the most ridiculous and unjust condition that could be imagined in a country that claims to be intelligently and fairly conducted? It is positively astounding that the American people submit to such discrimination. The working men and the common people are selling their birthright for a mess of pottage when they vote the Republican ticket in the hope that they will get their share of the ill gotten gain being gathered under the iniquitous tariff laws and not philanthropists. The tariff makers say the tariff is for the purpose of enabling the manufacturer to pay his employees good wages. The laws never say how much of this extra burden levied on the public shall be paid to the workman. They leave all that to the mercy and liberty of the greedy manufacturer. He can be trusted, they say, to do the right thing. Yes, he can be trusted to contribute to the campaign fund enough of the men's wages to keep these false policies in force.

Wm. Lindsay, John G. Carlisle, and nearly all the prominent Democrats who have withheld their support from Mr. Bryan heretofore are working hard for him this time.

If you are a manufacturer or an office holder you should vote the Republican ticket as a matter of business. Otherwise you should be a Democrat and oppose the policy of forcing all home people to pay heavy tribute to one class, the manufacturers.

Champ Clark.

In the course of a great speech made at Louisville last week Hon. Champ Clark, of Missouri, had this to say of the tariff and the Republican panic:

What does the Republican platform say on the tariff this year? Wonders will never cease, for it says that they will revise the tariff. If a Republican had said that four years ago he would have been read out of the party.

What said they four years ago? They boldly declared that "A Democratic tariff is followed by business adversity; a Republican tariff by business"—the biggest lie printed since Gutenberg invented movable types. If I were starting an Annapolis Society in opposition to Roosevelt's, I would collar the author of that sentence—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts—clap him into it and make him president of it for life. Why didn't they put it in their platform this year? If it was true four years ago it is true now. Truth does not change in four years. It is eternal in its nature; universal in its application. It was false in 1904 and it is false now, but that did not deter them from putting it into their platform. The thing that prevented a repetition of that monstrous fable was the fact that after eleven years of a Republican high tariff, the highest ever put upon the books of any civilized country there came a panic last October which made men's teeth rattle from sea to sea; and it was a Republican panic, pure and simple. Consequently, they knew full well that if they repeated the stupendous canard of 1904, they would be hoisted out of the country.

Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury under both McKinley and Roosevelt, says it was the everest panic in our history; yet he is on the stump whooping it up for the party which produced the panic. He opened the Republican campaign in this city; but the men who lost their jobs and men who lost their money by reasons of that panic will not be apt to hearken to Leslie's siren song when he asks them to vote for Taft and Sherman. Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, the Republican boss of the Senate, says it was the most destructive panic that ever struck the country and he ought to know, for he knew as any man is the daddy of the Dingley tariff bill, which more than anything else caused the panic. I repeat that is a Republican panic and by reason of it they will be soundly trounced on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. They can't by any hook or crook charge the panic up to the Democrats. We fought tooth and nailed the laws which caused it and we were not in power when it broke upon the people. The McKinley tariff bill produced the panic of 1893; but Grover Cleveland was inducted into office just in time to hold the bag, while the Republicans established a good enough alibi to fool hundreds of thousands of voters but this time they were caught in the net—with the goods on them as to speak and they must suffer the consequences. Who made the panic? Roosevelt and his crowd say that Harriman did it, while Harriman and his crowd answer that Roosevelt and his crowd did it.

However, it does not matter whether Roosevelt and his crowd did it or Harriman and his crowd did it, it is a Republican panic, for let it never be forgotten that Harriman and his crowd are just as good Republicans as Roosevelt and his crowd. I am not certain but they are better. That is a family fight, in which I do not care to interfere. When I was 17 years old living up in Washington county, I was run enough to interfere in a family fight by stopping a man from beating his wife and I have fervently thanked God ever since that I am still alive. The warring pair doubled teams on me, one with a corn knife and the other with a scythe and if I had not had a good horse I would not now be making this speech. Consequently I am willing to let the Roosevelt gang and the Harriman gang fight to their heart's content.

The Associated Press reports, and the Republican organs print with pride, and point to as an evidence of "returning prosperity," the item that John Wannamaker has decided to immediately begin building a $6,000,000 business structure in Philadelphia, "thereby putting 1,000 men to work in the building industry." Not desiring to add to the already heavy embarrassment of the Republican organs by asking them to explain how prosperity could now be "returning" without having first departed. The Commoner would like to ask why the Republican organs failed to print all the facts about this Wannamaker job. They emphasized the fact that Mr. Wannamaker advertised for 1,000 workmen, but they failed to report that upwards of 4,000 workmen answered the advertisement to appear at 7:30 a. m., and that hundreds of these congregated at midnight before in order to better their chances of securing employment.

God made the doughnut, but the G. O. P. made the hole.—The Commoner.

"Toss Off The Tap."

The true remedy against our trusts is to seek out the cause of a trust and to remove that cause. This is a perfectly simple and natural remedy, and lies close at hand. It applies to public matters the same rule of wisdom which men apply to their own affairs as to health, business, and every private transaction in the world. If typhoid fever or some other epidemic is sweeping over your community and you find that it results from sewerage or some other physical cause, you will remove the cause and not rely solely upon the skill and remedial of medical practitioners. Some visitors who were being shown over a pauper lunatic asylum inquired of the guide what method was employed, to discover when the inmates were sufficiently recovered to leave.

"Well," replied he, "you see, it's this way. We have a big trough of water and we turn on the tap. We leave it running, and tell 'em to bail out the water with pails until they've emptied the trough."

"How does that prove it?" asked

Last week we referred to the fact that Hon. James N. Kehoe, while in Congress, had gone outside of his district and to the headwaters of Big Sandy to make personal examination of the coal veins so as to best fit himself to argue for the slack water project on our river. Above is a cut made from a photograph taken in one of the coal openings. Mr. Kehoe is shown on the right, indicating the top of the solid vein of coal with a stick. On the left stands J. C. Mayo, who accompanied Mr. Kehoe on this trip. We found this photo among a lot procured at Paintsville three or four years ago, and are glad to reproduce it here. Mr. Kehoe is the only Congressman we have ever had who has thoroughly gone into this most important of all matters to Big Sandians.

one of the visitors. "Well," said the guide, "them as ain't idiots turn off the tap."

Paintsville

The sad occurrence of Sunday night cast a gloom over the town and caused rather a sad day for our great rally.

Nevertheless great crowds came to hear Gov. Beckham, McChesney and Judge Davis, and we could not afford to be disappointed. Paintsville band with a large parade on horseback met Beckham and his party at the depot and marched over to town. Mr. Beckham and company took dinner with J. C. C. Mayo, at his magnificent home on third street. After dinner Gov. Beckham and party came to the Court House square where a large audience was already waiting. There was the largest crowd we have ever seen in Paintsville in many a long day.

Beckham was introduced by Fred Howes in an eloquent short talk which brought forth much cheering. Mr. Beckham made a splendid speech which was well received. At the conclusion of Beckham's speech the band played "Dixie," after which G. W. Peck of the graded school introduced McChesney as one of his old friends. Prof. Peck's speech in introducing McChesney was eloquent and to the point. McChesney caught the crowd with his wit and eloquence, and held them spell-bound during his entire address.

Judge Davis our next Congressman from the 10th was present and spoke to the people.

All things considered, this was a great day for Democracy in Johnson county.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, indigestion, and indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Restorative—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerve, alone brought that success which has led to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend
